With the New Zealand earthquake death toll now at 98, authorities have mounted the country's largest-ever rescue operation in a bid to save as many of the 226 missing people as they can. Since Tuesday's 6.3 magnitude earthquake leveled New Zealand's second-largest city, Christchurch, officials have been scrambling to mount

LAST EME NEWS and NEWSFLASH from the C56-Team, dated 2011-02-22: Eleventh day at the moon. We worked 361 inits on 144 MHz and 11 inits on 432 MHz. Yesterday evening we could add 5 more and now we closed down. We dismantled the station and cleaned all cables / elements. The wind and the salt seawater made everything very dirty. Our log is online on http://www.emelogger.com/gambia and we updated a lot of photos or YouTube movies.
